

DRINK A GLASS OF REAL HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST.

Says we will both look and feel clean, sweet and fresh and avoid illness.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides with results that are untold blessing to humanity. The latest application of its untiring research is the recommendation that it is as necessary to attend to internal sanitation of the drainage system of the human body as it is to the drains of the house.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal, putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the phosphated hot water is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatic stiffness, others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

DUBLIN SAVED BY BRITISH GUNBOAT

Shells Demolished Stronghold of Sinn Feiners and Drove Them from Other Positions.

DUBLIN, May 2.—This is the story of how a British gunboat saved Dublin.

In response to orders to lay up ship in the Liffey the gunboat was being brought into Dublin. The commander himself was going on leave and some of the crew, too, had obtained shore leave papers. As she was creeping sleepily up the Liffey the wireless crackled and a message came through the air that trouble was rife in Dublin and insurgents looting the city.

Quickly the boat was prepared for action. Her guns were unshipped, the men were ordered to their war stations and the gunboat came up the river with her guns unmasked and her crew ready for instant action.

On the South quay shouting and rifle shots around the power station indicated an attempt on the part of the rebel army to capture this important position. Here the rebels had massed in great numbers.

The gunboat's searchlight flashed out on the threatened point, starting the rebels by the sudden brilliancy. Nothing had been expected from this quarter and the menace of a gunboat moving across the river with her guns trained threw the insurgents into a panic.

They turned and fled for safety. In this way the quayside and river entrance to the Butt bridge were safely guarded and the overrunning of this part of the city was completely prevented.

Wednesday morning found the insurgents strongly entrenched in their headquarters in Liberty hall, adjacent to the government custom house, which they were preparing to rush. Straight up the river the bow guns of the gunboat were trained on Liberty hall.

Outside in the square a rebel mob was rushing about. A shell went clear over the heads of the rabble. So close was the shot that one man had his hat sucked up into the air by the vacuum caused by its passage.

The second shot went through the top of the Sinn Feiners' stronghold, taking the roof off. The third completely smashed the front, breaking up any further attempt on the part of the insurgents to invest this quarter.

Those not killed or put out of action broke and fled.

Next day the gunboat bombarded strong positions south of the river. McConnel's distillery and Boland's bakery, which had been occupied two days by the rebels, were demolished.

There was some fire shooting at these points, every shot from the gunboat leaving its mark.

UPHOLDS LAMAR CONVICTION.

Supreme Court Affirms Decision of New York Federal Court.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The supreme court yesterday affirmed the conviction of David Lamar in the New York federal courts on charges of impersonating Representative A. Mitchell Palmer to J. P. Morgan and others with intent to defraud. Lamar is under sentence to serve two years in the penitentiary and yesterday's action is the final word in the courts.

The court, through Chief Justice White, decided that a congressman is an officer of the United States within the meaning of the statute against the impersonation of an officer of the United States. That was the main point on which Lamar rested his case. Other points, principally those relating to jurisdiction and legal practice, were decided against him.

The crime for which Lamar was convicted is one seldom entered on the records of the federal court. The government charged that Lamar and Edward Lauterbach, a lawyer, entered into a conspiracy to obtain money from the United States Steel corporation and the Morgan firm by representing themselves as the agents of Speaker Clark and other men high in congress.

To further this conspiracy, it was charged that Lamar telephoned Lewis Cass Ledyard and others, representing himself over the telephone to be Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania, and sought to have Mr. Ledyard obtain employment for Lauterbach with the Morgan firm or the Steel corporation.

The telephone conversations, it was testified, continued over several days before Mr. Ledyard telephoned to the real Representative Palmer and found that he had been talking theretofore with an impostor. In the meantime Mr. Ledyard had seen Lauterbach, and Lauterbach, Mr. Ledyard said, had demanded money for his services.

$5,300,000 SUBSCRIBE TO LOAN.

Millions Contributed in Small Amounts to Germany's Fourth War Issue.

BERLIN, May 2 (by wireless to Sayville).—At a meeting of the central committee of the Reichsbank, Rudolf Havenstein, president of the bank, reported that the number of individual subscriptions to the fourth war loan was 5,300,000, as compared with 1,020,000 for the first war loan. The number of subscriptions for sums amounting to less than $1,400 was nearly 5,000,000, as against 900,000 in the case of the first loan.

Pupils of 500 high schools subscribed $12,000,000. In 680 boys' schools, $1,025,000 was subscribed. Pupils of 311 Berlin schools of the lower grades raised $250,000.

President Havenstein spoke of the decreasing part played by the loan banks. At the time of payment of the first installment on the first loan, 22 per cent of the sum due was paid with the aid of the loan banks. These banks financed only 8 1/2 per cent of the corresponding payments for the second loan, 6 1/2 per cent for the third, and 4 1/2 per cent for the fourth loan.

By the date the first installment of the first loan was due, 62 1/2 per cent of the total had been paid in, instead of the required 20 per cent. The amount paid on the second loan by the corresponding date was 67 per cent of the total, on the third loan 74 2/5 per cent, and on the fourth loan 76 per cent.

Up to April 27, $2,087,000,000 had been paid in on the new loan, of which only $99,000,000 was borrowed from loan banks.

$15,000,000 WILL CONTEST.

Court Decision May Give Columbia University Immense Sum.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Whether the late Amos E. Eno intended to leave $150,000, or more than $7,000,000 to Columbia university by his will of June 18, 1915, is a question before the surrogate in a will contest begun by his heirs over the division of his estate, estimated to be worth from $15,000,000 to $19,000,000. Mr. Eno left four wills, in the last of which he bequeathed his residuary estate to Columbia. His heirs assert he did not know the extent of his fortune and that he believed he was giving the university less than $100,000. They also contend that Mr. Eno was not mentally in a condition to dispose of his estate. Should the will be sustained, Columbia university will receive from $7,000,000 to $11,000,000.

His heirs who are contesting it are William P. Eno, Mrs. Antoinette Wood, Mary E. Pinchot, Gifford Pinchot, Amos R. E. Pinchot, Professor Henry Lane Eno, and Lady Antoinette Graves. Each received a substantial sum under the will they are contesting, but was remembered to a much larger degree in a will drawn by Mr. Eno in 1914.

PREPAREDNESS PARADE.

120,000 Men and Women to March in New York May 13.

NEW YORK, May 2.—More than 120,000 men and women are enrolled marchers in the citizens' preparedness parade which is to be held in this city May 13. Two contingents which were offered as part of a division in the parade were refused permission to enter on the ground that the parade was already as large as could march in this city between 9:30 a. m. and 9:30 p. m., which are to be the hours of the parade.

Rev. Dr. Herbert Shipman, representing the clergymen's section of the parade, said that he had been surprised by the ready response from ministers of all denominations who had been invited to join the parade. He said that 2,300 invitations had been sent to clergymen of all faiths and that from the flood of acceptances received already it appeared that a large proportion of this order would be among the marchers. The insurance men's league is already more than 6,000 strong.

WILL NEW BY-LAWS CATCH SCURLETIS?

Pool Room Owner May Get Business Started Before Regulation Requiring License Is Adopted.

(Special to The Reformer.)

BELLOWS FALLS, May 2. A few weeks ago Dennis Scurletis asked the board of village trustees if they would grant him a license to conduct a pool room and a bowling alley in a building on Westminster street. Scurletis bought the building some time ago and during the winter started to make repairs. He added another story to the building, changed its exterior appearance and completely remodeled the interior. During the process of the work the building caught fire, the firemen being called out three different times to fight it in one night.

While making the changes the Greek proprietor determined to put in a pool room on the street floor and to install two bowling alleys in the basement. After he had made his plans he asked the trustees about the license. He had already ordered the alleys. After the village officials told him that he would not have a license he consulted an attorney, who informed him that the by-laws of the village said nothing about licenses for pool rooms or bowling alleys and to go ahead with his plans, which he is doing.

He is putting money into the plant at the rate of several dollars a day. The results promise to be interesting. In the village meeting last January a committee which had been appointed in the dim past to draw up some by-laws and directed to show results reported that within a short time the by-laws would be printed and distributed and when the voters had had time to read them a special meeting would be called to decide whether they would be accepted. The copy for the by-laws reached the printers within a reasonable time. The copy was set up and since then the by-laws have not been seen nor heard from, so far as the public knows.

In these by-laws was incorporated a section giving the trustees authority to license pool rooms and bowling alleys. Residents who are aware of the intention of Scurletis to have the pool room and bowling alleys are awaiting the final result with interest. The owner of the building plans to have the bowling alleys in the basement and the trustees informed him he would not have a license because of the fact that the interior could not be seen from the street.

If Scurletis can finish the alleys and start in business before the new by-laws are adopted he will undoubtedly have the sympathy, and probably the active support, of many of the residents of the village. If the special village meeting is held prior to the time the alleys are completed he looks to be due to get a lot of sympathy, and that's about all.
